ABSTRACT

The 1975-76 edition of the Medical School Faculty Salary Survey reports data from 113 U.S. and 16 Canadian medical schools. The data reflect reported salaries for filled faculty positions only. Reduction of the total number of reported positions can in large part be attributed to a 5 percent vacancy rate of faculty positions at schools reporting during the previous two years of the survey. The Canadian statistics are shown separately. The tables report information on: the fundamental salary data reported for all filled positions by four nature-of-employment classifications; salary statistics for filled faculty positions by U.S. regions; salaries according to type of ownership by nature of employment; and percentage change in salaries for filled faculty positions in U.S. medical schools participating in the survey for 1975-76 and 1974-75. INTRODUCTION

The 1975-76 edition of the Medical School Faculty Salary Survey has been produced with the cooperation of 113 participating United States medical schools and 16 Canadian schools newly introduced into the survey. Data included in this report reflect reported salaries for filled faculty positions. This is a change from previous reports which also included vacant positions. Reduction of the total number of reported positions from 31,311 to 30,487 can in large part be attributed to a 5% vacancy rate of faculty positions at schools reporting during the previous two years of the survey. Statistics for 3,361 additional faculty positions in 16 Canadian medical schools are shown separately in Section V.

The summary table, (p. 79) shows filled faculty positions in the United States and Canada. The United States salary information included data for 18,774 strict full-time, 2,114 strict full-time affiliated, 8,232 geographic full-time, and 1,367 geographic full-time affiliated positions. In Canada, 1,421 strict full-time, 185 strict full-time affiliated, 1,645 geographic full-time, and 110 geographic full-time affiliated faculty were reported. A greater proportion of the total Canadian faculty is employed on a geographic full-time basis. Observation of the pattern of employment for total U.S. faculty reported in this survey during the past two years shows no significant shift from strict full-time to geographic full-time nature of employment.

Detailed breakdown by specialty has been omitted for some faculty classifications, e.g. geographic full-time faculty in the basic science departments, because of the small sample size. Caution should be exercised in interpreting any individual cell in the array of data when the "number" of positions is low since individual variation can have great effect on small group statistics.

Section I contains the fundamental salary data reported for all filled positions at U.S. medical schools by four nature of employment classifications. The most apparent increase of 16% in number of positions reported since 1974-75 has been for affiliated faculty. Our supposition is that there is some movement toward greater reliance on faculty at affiliated institutions. There may also be concurrently a re-evaluation of faculty classifications. Particularly significant is a 46% rise in the reported number of geographic full-time affiliated faculty, but a decrease of 5.5% in the number of geographic full-time faculty reporting.

Salary statistics for filled faculty positions by U.S. regions are reported in Section II. The number of institutions reporting in each of the four regions is as follows (the total number of medical schools in each region is shown in parentheses): Northeastern - 35 (35), Southern - 33 (34), Midwestern - 29 (30), Western - 16 (16). Regional summaries by ownership and by nature of employment are presented in Section VI.

Section III reflects salaries according to type of ownership by nature of employment. Data were submitted and included in this report for 65 public and 48 private schools of medicine. Comparison of mean faculty salaries for positions at public and private schools supports the assertion that salary scales at private institutions are higher than those at public institutions, especially in the upper ranks and in the clinical departments. The distinction is most pronounced for geographic full-time faculty.

Percentage change in salaries for filled faculty positions in U.S. medical schools participating in the Survey for 1975-76 and 1974-75 are reported in Section IV. These comparisons reflect only data for a matched set of those institutions (104 schools) reporting faculty salaries for both survey years. The rates of increase in the weighted mean salary for all academic ranks by nature of employment classification are, over the past year: strict full-time (basic science departments) = 5.8%, strict full-time (clinical science departments) = 8.2%, geographic full-time base (clinical science departments) = 9.4%, geographic full-time total (clinical science departments) = 8.0%.

The pattern of salary growth varies widely across academic departments as well as ranks, and is frequently influenced by nature of employment, i.e. SFT, GFT. Between 1973-74 and 1975-76, mean salaries for strict full-time faculty associated with the basic science departments have shown consistent growth. This increase has accelerated markedly between 1974-75 and 1975-76, especially at the lower ranks. By contrast, however, the increase in mean salaries paid to SFT faculty in the clinical departments has slowed somewhat across all ranks during the past year.

It is evident that salary growth for clinical faculty paid on a geographic full-time basis is frequently influenced by fluctuations in the two major components - the "base" and the "variable". The "base" amount is the fixed component of institutional compensation usually free from the influence of changing clinical practice earnings. The rate of increase in mean salaries for these faculty shows a mixed pattern between 1973-74 and 1975-76. Generally when considering just the "base" amount of total earnings, there has been significantly slower salary progression during the 1974-75 to 1975-76 span than for the previous year. On the other hand, there has been sharply greater salary growth across all ranks over this past year compared to the 1973-74 to 1974-75 period, when considering total earnings ("base" plus "variable").

To illustrate the wide variations across ranks (excluding instructor) among the clinical departments operating on a GFT basis, the departments of obstetrics-gynecology and anesthesiology show the following mean rates of increase in the "base" salary component between 1974-75 and 1975-76: obstetrics-gynecology, .8 to 8.3 percent; anesthesiology, 1.2 to 10.8 percent. When the "variable" earnings are added to the "base" amount, the inter-departmental comparisons as to rates of increase across ranks continue to reflect wide extremes. For the same departments as above and for the same time span, the ranges were: obstetrics-gynecology, 7.0 to 11.9 percent, and anesthesiology, 9.3 to 20.2 percent.

It is clear from the above discussion that the "variable" component of total earnings has had a very significant effect on the percentage increase of total earnings. We conclude from this that many schools are using the "variable" earnings usually associated with medical practice plans to maintain a competitive level with the earnings of private practitioners.

In this connection, the reader of this report is cautioned to recognize with respect to geographic full-time faculty the distinctions between "base" and "total" amounts appearing on the various tables. The former is just the institutionally guaranteed portion of earnings, whereas the latter reflects the "variable" component as well.

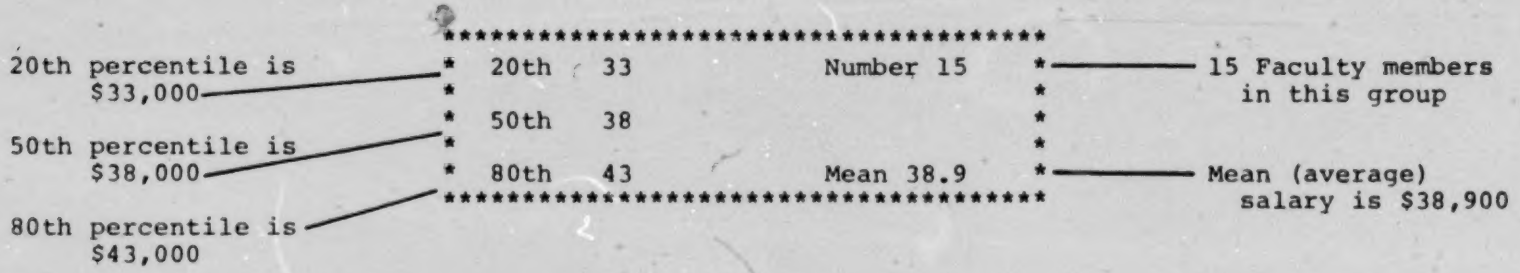
KEY TO SALARY TABLES



Note on Computation of Percentile Statistics - The percentile statistics were calculated in the following manner: To obtain the value for the nth percentile statistic, reported salaries were counted in ascending order until the inclusion of a particular reported salary accounted for n percent or more of the reported salaries. No interpolation was performed. As a consequence of this procedure, cells with N=2 show identical values for the 20th and 50th percentile.

Nature of Employment Definitions

AAMC Faculty Salary Survey

The definitions of full-time and part-time salaried medical school faculty comprise the following classes of faculty:

SFT — A. Strict full-time medical school faculty are those who receive their entire professional income as a fixed annual amount from funds controlled by the medical school or its parent institution, who devote their full time to the programs of the medical school, and whose professional activities are under the direct auspices of the medical school.

SFTA — B. Strict full-time affiliated faculty are those who receive their entire professional income as a fixed annual amount from one or a variety of sources (medical school, parent institution, owned or affiliated institutions and their parents), devote their full time to the programs of the medical school, but whose professional activities are not under the direct auspices of the medical school.

GFT — C. Geographic full-time medical school faculty are those who receive a fixed salary all or most of which is paid from funds controlled by the medical school, but who may earn variable income from professional activities, who conduct all of their professional work in the institution(s) paying the fixed salary, and whose professional activities are under the direct auspices of the medical school.

GFTA — D. Geographic full-time affiliated faculty are those who receive a fixed salary and who are paid their fixed salary from one or a variety of sources (usually affiliated hospitals) and may earn some variable income from professional activities, and whose professional activities are not under the direct auspices of the medical school.
